National Day

A national day is a defined date as a mark of nationhood of a nation. A national day often becomes as a national holiday within a country. One of the national days in Indonesia is the Indonesian Independence day. Indonesian Independence was proclaimed on August 17, 1945 by Soekarno – Hatta at Pegangsaan Timur 56, Jakarta. The proclamation was to claim the Indonesian Independence from the Dutch colonized Indonesia for about three hundred and fifty years and the Japanese colonized Indonesia for about three and half years.

The Indonesians celebrates their independence day ever year, every 17th August. The preparation for the celebration even starts about one week earlier. The celebration can be in different kind of forms, such as performing flag ceremony, performing traditional games like sack racing and palm tree climbing, and decorating houses, offices for government and privates, shopping malls, and other buildings with national colors, red and white. On 17th of August the flag ceremonies are performed at State Palace, at school, at universities, at government offices and at other places.
